November 14, 2007, Alexandria, VA – National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) Chairman JoAnn Johnson today announced that Jeremy Carl has been appointed Associate Director of External Affairs.

Carl served on the White House staff from 2003 to 2007, most recently as Deputy Associate Director in the Office of Presidential Scheduling, where he helped manage President George W. Bush's scheduling requests. He also served in the Office of Presidential Correspondence, where he trained White House staff, volunteers and interns to analyze and respond to incoming Presidential correspondence. Prior to the White House, Carl served on Capitol Hill as a Legislative Aide to United States Senator Kay Bailey Hutchison of Texas.

"I am pleased to have Jeremy on staff at NCUA," said Chairman Johnson. "His experience from the White House and Capitol Hill will be valuable to the agency."

NCUA Director of Public and Congressional Affairs, John J. McKechnie III said that "Carl brings a broad and diverse range of talent and experience which will support the agency's function of maintaining the safety and soundness of the credit union system." "He will be a vital component of the agency's strategic communications and public affairs initiatives and outreach."

Carl graduated from Presbyterian College in South Carolina, earning a degree in Business Administration, where he was named Captain of the varsity tennis team. Carl is married to his wife Melissa, and resides in Alexandria, Virginia.

The National Credit Union Administration is the independent federal agency that charters and supervises federal credit unions. NCUA, with the backing of the full faith and credit of the U.S. government, operates the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund (NCUSIF), insuring the savings of 85 million members in all federal credit unions and the vast majority of state-chartered credit unions. NCUA is supported by credit unions, not federal tax dollars.
