NCUA Chairman Matz to Host Town Hall Webinar with CFPB Director Cordray

Register Now to Join a Broad Discussion of Regulatory Issues

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (Jan. 7, 2013) – National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) Board Chairman Debbie Matz will host a free town hall webinar with Richard Cordray, Director of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (CFPB), on Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 3 p.m. EST.

“I know that credit union officials have many questions about CFPB, so Director Cordray has agreed to join my webinar to discuss the changing environment for financial regulation and consumer protection,” Chairman Matz said. “This webinar will provide a unique opportunity for credit union officials to ask questions directly to Mr. Cordray.”

The webinar will feature a broad discussion of new developments in financial regulation, including CFPB’s recently finalized regulations, proposed rules, and enforcement efforts.

Online registration for this free, informative webinar is now open here. Participants will use this same link to log into the webinar, and they should allow pop-ups from this website.

During the webinar, participants will be able to type in questions about any topic relating to the credit union industry or the CFPB. Participants also can submit advance questions at WebinarQuestions@ncua.gov. The subject line of the email should read, “NCUA-CFPB Town Hall.”

For technical questions about accessing the webinar, please call 703-518-6440.

NCUA is the independent federal agency created by the U.S. Congress to regulate, charter and supervise federal credit unions. With the backing of the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government, NCUA operates and manages the National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund, insuring the deposits of nearly 94 million account holders in all federal credit unions and the overwhelming majority of state-chartered credit unions.
