Dear Mr. Poliquin:

I am writing to you as an employee of Security First Credit Union regarding the NCUA's proposal on PCA – Risk-Based Capital. Security First Credit Union is based in Edinburg, Texas and serves over 55,000 members. I appreciate the opportunity to comment on this very important issue. As someone who enjoys employment through a credit union, I see and hear from members every day that share stories of how their credit union has helped them achieve their financial goals. Every day I see how members benefit first hand as the result of our credit union being able to serve them. I firmly believe that credit unions are a great asset to this country and unfair and unsound requirements like this would only unjustly burden our ability to help meet our members needs and develop the community's around us. I believe that is unfair for the NCUA to set capital requirements differently for credit unions than the FDIC sets for banks, specifically regarding an increased requirement for longer-term government-backed security's. Furthermore, more time would be needed so as to phase in such a rule.

The NCUA has not justified the need for this rule adequately given the immense burden this would put on the very parties it is meant to protect and govern. I implore you to reconsider, and thank you for your time.
