Dear Secretary of the Board Poliquin,

The National Credit Union Administration is to be applauded for its proposal to ease the membership burdens facing federal credit unions. Current membership rules are outdated, artificially limiting access to credit unions. The proposed rule would amend the Chartering and Field of Membership Manual making revisions to the agency's Field of Membership rules. The proposed amendments do not allow credit unions to serve more consumers, they only allow credit unions more flexibility to serve those that share a common bond. Consumers deserve choice on where they obtain financial services and credit unions should be easily available to all Americans in all communities. This is especially important for communities where banks do not provide service to people of modest means, like credit unions strive to do.

The proposal you are considering is a step in the right direction toward making sure that credit unions can fully serve their communities.

Sincerely,

Edward Eno
