Dear Mr. Poliquin,

My husband and I are members of Dominion Credit Union and we are opposed to the revised Risk-Based Capital regulation. We chose a credit union because they place the focus on members, not profits. We believe the rules set forth will make it harder for our credit union to serve us. The new burdens the rule places on the credit union will make it harder for them to provide the types of services and rates we have come to expect from credit unions. NCUA is not hammer; don't treat credit unions like nails—listen to the owners and vote no on Risk-Based Capital. Thank you

Regards,

Matt & Victoria Taylor
